Best methods used in "Education of the Visually Handicapped Children" were discussed by more than 130 educators from all parts of Southern California at a meeting held recently in Torrance Schools' Educational Materials Building. Torrance and six other districts are members of the program, under which the districts cooperate in providing schooling for children with various handicaps. Torrance has schooling for partially-sighted children and blind high school students, while Hawthorne has classes for elementary blind students. Miss Dorothy Misbach, state consultant for the visually handicapped, was keynote speaker. Dr. Warren Hamilton, Torrance director of special services welcomed the delegates.
